Inverell Art Prize 2025 Judge Bio

Allison Bellinger

Allison Bellinger is the founder and director of the A.K. Bellinger Gallery, a leading contemporary art space located in Inverell, NSW. Allison has established a strong reputation for championing significant Australian artists and curating a vibrant, nationally recognised exhibition program.

A former Sydney-based lawyer, Allison brings a sharp eye for detail, a deep personal passion for visual art, and an instinctive understanding of artistic merit to her curatorial and judging roles. Under her leadership, A.K. Bellinger Gallery has become a respected cultural destination, both regionally and online, with a stable of over 25 established and emerging artists, and a growing international clientele.

Living on a working farm just outside Inverell, Allison's perspective is deeply shaped by her rural surroundings and her commitment to making high quality contemporary art accessible beyond metropolitan centres. Her appreciation for both the challenges and creativity of regional life brings a valuable and grounded voice to this year's judging panel.

Allison's commitment to quality, her keen sense for artistic innovation, and her belief in connecting audiences with meaningful, contemporary work make her a valued and insightful judge for this year's art prize.
